

ATOMIC ENERGY COUNCIL ENHANCES FACILITY COMPLIANCE WITH RADIATION PROTECTION AND NUCLEAR SAFETY

The Atomic Energy Council (AEC) has continued to make tremendous progress in regulating Atomic Energy applications in the country. Established by the Atomic Energy Act No.24 of 2008(AEA,2008) the Council is mandated to regulate the peaceful applications of ionizing radiation in Uganda to provide for the protection and safety of society and environment from dangers resulting from ionizing radiation. AEC regulates all practices involving a risk of harm arising from ionizing radiation. The fields of application of ionizing radiation in Uganda are in Medicine, Industry, Agriculture, Security, Education and Research.

Section 9(b) of the Act mandates Council to issue authorizations and grant exemptions for possession and use of radiation sources. These include license to possess & use radiation sources, permits to transport, import, export, transfer and sell radiation sources, among others. Regulatory control of radiation sources for radiation protection and nuclear safety is verified through the authorization and inspection processes by assessing the levels of compliance with regulatory requirements.

Over the last five financial years, there has been significant improvement in compliance levels in radiation protection, nuclear safety and nuclear security in the country. In the same period, AEC issued 1087 authorizations of which 910 were licenses to possess and use while 177 were permits. As of December 15,2020, a total of 340 licenses to possess and use radiation sources and generators were issued to 283 facilities out of 438 active and licensable facilities making a percentage of 65%. The unlicensed facilities do not meet the minimum basic safety standards to undertake such practices and are therefore not allowed to engage in practices involving emission of ionizing radiation.

Inspection of facilities using radiation sources verifies implementation of the radiation safety requirements of the Atomic Energy Act No.24 of 2008 and Atomic Energy Regulations, 2012. During the same period, 1463 radiation safety inspections have been conducted. These inspections include announced, unannounced, follow-up and special inspections. A lot of progress has been made in Management of disused and orphaned radioactive sources, Environmental monitoring, Radiological Emergency Preparedness and Response and in security of radioactive sources for radiation protection and nuclear safety.

The Council appreciates the licensed facilities and encourages them to keep up the good work in radiation protection and safety. The unlicensed facilities are encouraged to put in place regulatory requirements to meet the minimum compliance levels to warrant authorization. Unlicensed facilities are not legally allowed to operate as per section 32 the AEA, 2008. In case of illegal operations by the unlicensed facilities, Council will deal with this as the law provides. The public is encouraged to inform the Council about facilities operating without authorization for the necessary action to protect the public from any risks associated with ionizing radiation.

AEC will continue to liaise with unlicensed facilities to provide them with the appropriate regulatory guidance concerning radiation protection and safety and recommending to such facilities how they can achieve radiation safety in their respective practices. Facilities are also encouraged to document and implement safety assessment reports, quality assurance programs, local rules and acquire adequate personal protective equipment commensurate with the nature of their practice. To all operators, Council is available for any regulatory guidance whenever needed.

For the purposes of protecting the public and in particular the patients, AEC encourages the public to seek services from facilities which are licensed to avoid or mitigate the risks associated with unregulated exposure to ionizing radiation which may cause radiation hazards dangerous to human health.

The table below shows the licensed and unlicensed facilities as at 15/12/2020. This information is updated from time to time.
