FACULTY OF LAW

In response to the need for the sound legal education in the world at large and Uganda in particular, BISHOP STUART UNIVERSITY introduced a bachelor of laws degree program to provide opportunities to train human resources in law so as to increase and improve access to justice.

In August 2012 the first application was lodged with the National Council for Higher Education for the accreditation of the law programs. The law programs are fully accredited by the National Council for Higher Education and recognized by Law council of Uganda.

Under the guidance of lecturers, the students of the faculty will be conducting clinics to assist people with various legal problems, such as accessing justice, issues of domestic violence, matters of succession. They will be writing to sensitize communities about their rights, such as the right to a clean environment, the right to education, the right to health and the right to shelter, land rights etc.

- Bachelor of Laws
- Diploma in Law

GRADUATE STUDIES

The graduate coordination office is vital to graduate students of the University. BSU places high regard to the educational, social, technological, administrative and scientific aspects of graduate studies. This is in realization that graduate students of all categories bring in vibrant and dynamic research contribution to the university. It is on record that, globally, more than a half of the research is carried out by graduate students at all levels. Such contribution goes a long way towards boosting both institutional and individual academic growth.
