The Inspector General of Police, Gen. Kale Kayihura, and the leadership of the Uganda Police Force wish His Excellency the President Gen. Kaguta Y. Museveni, cabinet members and all people of Uganda a jolly and peaceful Independence day.

The police pledges to continue with its mandate of protecting the people and property of Uganda and enhancing peace and order and adherence to the rule of law. We are not yet relenting on the noble task of preventing and managing crimes of all kinds. With further professionalization of the force and facilitation, the police force, through its many directorates and specialized units, is carrying out many assignments domestically and abroad in international peace missions and other collaborations.

With new products like community policing and neighbourhood watch and the police standards unit, the police is steadily contributing to the peace and maintenance of law and order.

The force has also embarked on various agricultural and other productive activities for the benefit of the staff, their spouses and families and the general Ugandan economy. We have also embarked on self-reliance projects such as the garments factory which makes uniforms for the police on Jinja road in Kampala.

The factory will soon make products for other security agencies and the general public. All such activities help boost the livelihoods of the citizens plus our usual community services like vaccination and health campaigns and general sanitation and cleaning of neighbourhoods.

Recently, the Hon. Minister of State for Internal Affairs Hon. Kania Obiga launched the construction of 1020 housing units at Naguru for lower ranking police officers during the police week celebrations geared towards improving on their accommodation.
